

CHAPTER 7

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

CONTENTS

CHAPTER SEVEN: FINDING S AND CONCLUSIONS:

7.0	INTRODUCTION:	243
7.1	THE OBJECTIVES OF THE RESEARCH.	243
7.1.3	(a) Operationalisation of the research project
7.2	EVALUATION OF METHODOLOGY	247
7.2.8	Data Analysis
7.2.10	What to do differently in another study;
7.2.12	(i) Measurement
7.2.13	(ii) Planning
7.2.14	(iii) Qualifications
7.2.15	(iv) Technology
7.2.16	(v) Pricing
7.3	RESEARCH FINDINGS AND THEIR IMPLICATIONS	252
7.3.1	Introduction
7.3.2	Overall Results from the research
7.4	FURTHER ASSESSMENT OF THE HYPOTHESES	254
7.4.2	(a) Management commitment, positive attitudes and perceptions are positively related to export performance
7.4.6	(b) Export planning is positively related to export performance
7.4.10	(c). Export performance is positively related to the use of international marketing research information
7.4.13	(d) A combination of formal and informal market selection methods is positively related to export performance
7.4.20	(e): Export performance is positively related to the number of export markets served
7.4.23	(f) How price is determined is not related to export performance
7.4.27	(g) Export performance is positively related to the use of two or more sales channels and Commission Agents in particular.
7.4.30	(h). Promotional intensity is positively related to export performance
7.4.32	Hypotheses: Outcome of Testing	265
7.4.33	Overall conclusions from the research project, with special reference to the implications for UK manufacturing exporters of knitted apparel
7.4.38	Firm size and performance
7.4.39	Management commitment, positive attitudes and perceptions
7.4.40	Company planning
7.4.41	Market concentration or market spreading
7.4.42	Use of international marketing information
7.4.43	Formal plus informal market selection
7.4.44	Effect of price determination method
	(a) Cost plus pricing method
	(b) Pricing and invoicing currency

	(c). Franco domicile sales/ quotation terms
7.4.45	Sales Channels
7.4.46	Promotional Intensity
7.4.47	Conclusion	272
7.4.48	Project's contribution to knowledge of the knitted apparel sector
7.5	A SUGGESTED DIRECTION FOR FURTHER RESEARCH	273
7.5.1	Further research in the knitted apparel industry
7.5.2	Cross sectoral variability
7.5.3	Company size and export performance
7.5.4	Non-Response Tests
7.5.5	Rationalising existing research	275
	Semi-Annex	275a

