

University of Bradford eThesis

This thesis is hosted in Bradford Scholars – The University of Bradford Open Access repository. Visit the repository for full metadata or to contact the repository team © University of Bradford. This work is licenced for reuse under a Creative Commons Licence.

MUSLIMS AS MINORITIES IN NON-MUSLIM LANDS WITH SPECIFIC REFERENCE TO THE ḤANAFĪ LAW SCHOOL AND BRITAIN

A social and legal study of Muslims living as a minority in Europe, particularly Britain; focussing on how traditional Islam facilitates Muslims to practice their faith within this secular context.

Amjad Mohmood MOHAMMED

submitted for the degree of Master of Philosophy

School of Lifelong Education and Development

University of Bradford

2011

Amjad Mohmood MOHAMMED

Muslims as Minorities in non-Muslim Lands with Specific Reference to the Ḥanafī Law School and Britain

Muslim, minorities, Ḥanafī, fiqh, Islam, British, legal theory, fiqh al-aqalliyāt.

ABSTRACT

In the 21st century Muslims can be found as minorities in what can be described as secular, democratic western countries. The research presented in this study will trace the process by which this community arrived in Western Europe and in particular Britain. Furthermore, it will explain how the community developed its faith identity within this context by detailing three particular stances they have adopted, namely; assimilation, isolation, integration. The thesis argues that rather than the assumption which exists that applying Traditional Islam causes Muslims to isolate from the indigenous population and form a ‘state within a state’ it actually gives the religious confidence and identity to integrate within the wider society.

The study also focuses on Islamic Law as interpreted by the Ḥanafī Law school and highlights in detail the multi-pronged and robust nature of its legal theory and subsequent application. There is an opportunity whilst determining the context to challenge the so-called ‘classical’ Islam’s view of the world, especially the view that all non-Muslim lands are dār al-ḥarb. The research details a novel understanding of the classical view and discusses how the state’s attitude towards Islam and Muslims determines its territorial ruling.

In conclusion, the study has shown that the traditional interpretive model inherently possesses the flexibility, relevance and applicability to take into consideration minority-status of Muslims in Britain adhering to the Ḥanafī Law School. This is manifest by the ability this model has to deal with contemporary issues in wide ranging subjects like Medicine, Politics and Finance As a result it facilitates their integration within this secular society whilst remaining true to their faith.

LIST OF CONTENTS

1.0 Introduction	1
1.1 Background	1
1.2 Historical Background – Economic Migrants to Citizens	2
1.3 Relationship to ‘Other’ – Isolationist, Integrationist or Assimilationist?	5
1.4 Hermeneutic Approach - Liberal, Traditional and Literal	12
1.5 Aim and Objectives	16
1.6 Research Design and Methodology	18
1.7 Text-related Approaches	19
1.8 Thesis Structure	20
2.0 Muslims through the Ages – From Minority to Majorities to Minorities	25
2.1 Introduction	25
2.2 Definition of the ‘Muslim Minority’	26
2.3 Overview of Muslims - From Makka to the Rest of the World	28
2.3.1 Historical Background to Islam and Muslims	29
2.3.2 Period of Revelation 610-632	30
2.3.3 The Four Rightly Guided Caliphs 632-661	31
2.3.4 The Umayyad Period 661-750	33
2.3.5 The Abbasid Period 750-1258	35
2.3.6 The Umayyad Dynasty of Spain 756-1061	35
2.3.7 The Fatimids 909-1171	36

2.3.8	The Buyids 932-1062	36
2.3.9	The Party Kings of Spain 1009-1091	36
2.3.10	The Great Saljuqs 1038-1194	36
2.3.11	The Rūm Saljuqs 1077-1307	37
2.3.12	Almoravids – Spain 1090-1145 & Northwest Africa 1056-1147	37
2.3.13	The Atabegs 1127-1270	37
2.3.14	Almohads – Spain 1171-1212 & North Africa 1130-1269	37
2.3.15	The Ayyubids 1171-1252	38
2.3.16	Nasrids 1231-1492	38
2.3.17	The Mamluks 1254-1516	38
2.3.18	The Mongols 1258-1353	38
2.3.19	The Ottoman Turks 1281-1924	38
2.3.20	The Safavids 1495-1736	39
2.3.21	The Mughals 1526-1858	39
2.4	Living as a Minority – Examples from Around the World	40
2.5	Arrival and Development of Muslims in Western Europe	45
2.6	Post Second World War Development in Western Europe	47
2.7	Historical Background of Muslims in Britain	55
2.8	Muslims in Britain – Post Second World War	56
2.9	Muslim Legal Pluralism in Britain	64
2.9.1	Background	64
2.9.2	Marriage (al-Nikāḥ) and Divorce (al-Ṭalāq)	66
2.9.3	The Sunnī and Shiʿī Schools of Law	69
2.10	Conclusions	71

3.0 Hermeneutic Approaches in the Analysis of Religious Texts	74
3.1 Introduction	74
3.2 Conventional Discourse Analysis	75
3.3 The Literal Approach	78
3.4 The Liberal Approach	81
3.5 The Traditional Approach	88
3.6 Philosophical Considerations	91
3.6.1 The Search for Truth	92
3.6.2 Traditionalism and Modernism	93
3.7 Conclusions	101
4.0 The Traditional Ḥanafī Legal Approach	104
4.1 Introduction	104
4.2 The Foundations of the Ḥanafī Legal School	105
4.2.1 Abū Ḥanīfa Nu‘mān b. Thābit	105
4.2.2 Qāḍī Abū Yūsuf Yā‘qūb b. Ibrāhīm	107
4.2.3 Muḥammad b. al-Ḥasan al-Shaybānī	108
4.2.4 Zūfar b. al-Huḏayl	108
4.2.5 The Foundational Books of the Ḥanafī Legal School	109
4.2.6 Ibn ‘Ābidīn’s Uqūd rasm al-muftī	126
4.3 The Qur’ān, Sunna, Ijmā’ and Qiyās	137
4.4 Social Conditions and the ‘Spirit of the Law’	141
4.5 Uṣūl al-Fiqh The Principles of Jurisprudence – Legal Theory	145
4.6 Conclusions	152

5.0	Uṣūl al-Fiqh According to the Ḥanafī School of Law – The Text	154
5.1	Introduction	154
5.2	Al-Shāshī’s Uṣūl al-fiqh	155
5.2.1	Introduction	155
5.2.2	First Discussion Regarding the Book of Allah the Almighty	156
5.2.3	Second Discussion Regarding the Sunna of the Messenger of Allah	177
5.2.4	Third Discussion Regarding al-Ijmā’ (Consensus)	183
5.2.5	The Role of the Mujtahid	185
5.2.6	Fourth Discussion Regarding al-Qiyās (Analogical Reasoning)	185
5.2.7	Sharī’a Analogical Reasoning	189
5.2.8	Section on Rulings	192
5.2.9	Religious Terminology	194
5.3	Al-Istiḥsān - Juristic Preference	197
5.4	Al-‘Urf – Societal Customs	204
5.5	Al-Ḍarūra – Sharī’a Compliant Necessities	211
5.6	Al-Qawā’id Al-Fiqhiyya – Legal Maxims of Fiqh	215
5.7	Terminology of the Different Gradation of Rulings	226
5.7.1	Al-Farḍ - The Compulsory	227
5.7.2	Al-Wājib – The Necessary	228
5.7.3	Al-Sunna – The Approved Way	230
5.7.4	Al-Ḥarām – The Forbidden	232
5.7.5	Al-Mubāḥ - The Permissible	233
5.8	Conclusions	234

6.0	Al-Diyār Political Domains – The Context	235
6.1	Introduction	235
6.2	Historical Territorial Developments within the Muslim Lands	236
6.3	Nationalism and Nation States	241
6.4	Identity of Muslims – Global and Local	245
6.4.1	The Global Muslim Community – Al-Umma	245
6.4.2	The Local Territorial Community – Al-Qawm	249
6.5	Territorial Ruling of Britain	254
6.5.1	Applying the Literal Approach	254
6.5.2	Applying the Liberal Approach	255
6.5.3	Applying the Traditional Approach	258
6.6	Conclusions	276
7.0	Application of the Ḥanafī Fiqh in the British Context	278
7.1	Introduction	278
7.2	Social Interaction	280
7.2.1	Working with Illegal Products/Services	280
7.2.2	Meat and Poultry	286
7.2.3	Death Payments and Inheritance	289
7.3	Private Life	292
7.3.1	Raw Materials in Foods	292
7.3.2	Medication Based on Illegal Materials	296
7.3.3	Blood Transfusion and Organ Transplantation	299
7.3.4	Menstruation During Pilgrimage	302
7.3.5	Immunisation	304

7.4 Economic	306
7.4.1 Non-contact Sales	306
7.4.2 Currency Trading	308
7.5 Political	311
7.5.1 Citizenship of a non-religious State	312
7.5.2 Participating in Elections	315
7.6 Conclusions	317
8.0 Concluding Findings	319
8.1 Summary of Findings	319
8.2 Hypotheses	321
8.3 Further Research	323
Bibliography	325
Appendix A – Transliteration	361
Appendix B – Glossary	362

LIST OF FIGURES

Figure 1 – The Interpretive Continuum	-	14
Figure 2 – Historical and Geographical Representation of the key jurists of the Ḥanafī Law School	-	116
Figure 3 – The Changing of the Ḥukm due to Changing Context	-	150
Figure 4 – The Relationship between the Political Domains	-	263

LISTS OF TABLES

Table 1 – Closed and Open views of ‘The Other’.	- 11
Table 2 – The Relationship between Social Stance and Hermeneutic Approach	- 15
Table 3 – The Concept of Khāṣ in the Source Texts	- 157

LIST OF PRESENTATIONS

Recent Ḥanafī Fatāwā in a British Context – The Interpretation and Application of Islamic Law – 19-20th June 2008 - Institute of Arab and Islamic Studies, University of Exeter - Network of British Researchers and Practitioners of Islamic Law.

Islam in Britain – 7th February 2009 – St. Paul’s Church

Traditional Islam in the UK – 17th February 2009 – Centre for Islam in the UK/The Cardiff Law School - Cardiff University

Legal Aspects of Islam in Britain – 23rd February 2009 – Bishopgate, Ashwell Road

Prepared programme of study and pre-course reading - Contemporary Debates in Islam – 28th and 30th April 2009 – Senior Managers/Deans/VC – University of Bradford

Islam, the Sharī’a and British Society – 30th April 2009 – Ordination Training – Dubrovnik Hotel

Islam and Modernity – 28th May 2009 – University Education Mela – University of Bradford

Money Matters: Christian and Muslim Perspectives on the Economic Challenges of Today – 29th June 2009 – The Mirfield Centre

AKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to start by thanking my supervisors; George Sheeran, who has been supportive, dependable and up-beat at all times – I wish him the best in his retirement; and Nadira Mirza without whom this may never have happened at Bradford and so is instrumental in the existence of this thesis. I recall the meeting, which incidentally was about another subject, when I raised my interest in conducting research and the rest as they say is history.

I have to mention the support and good wishes of my family; my wife who has been at my side throughout the journey and my three children, Aisha, Hassan and Hafsa who have been a source of inspiration and a welcome break from hours of reading, researching and typing.

I dedicate this research as a mean of appreciation to the Holy Prophet Muḥammad for the knowledge which he brought to Earth and then disseminated through his Companions and the great scholars who followed them; and to submit it in the service of Allah the All-Mighty and pray He accepts it; Āmīn.